WAR MEMORIALS OF WOLVERHAMPTON

War Memorials of Wolverhampton commemorates the war dead of the city from all wars, on stained glass windows, marble sculptures, bronze figures and grave stones. These memorials can be found in churches, work places, in the streets and even a local bank. They are a moving expression of the loss and the grief felt by the people left behind from many wars.

To commemorate 100 years since World War One, Wolverhampton Civic and Historical Society (WCHS) has produced this map to help people discover the beautiful war memorials scattered throughout the city and help ensure the sacrifice of the fallen is never forgotten.

VICTORIA CROSS MEMORIALS

The Victoria Cross is the highest award for gallantry in the face of the enemy that can be awarded to British and Commonwealth forces. There will be two commemorative paving stones in the city honouring George Onions VC from Bilston, and Roland Elcock VC from Heath Town, whose brave actions earned them this esteemed award.

The paving stones will be unveiled during commemoration ceremonies to mark the anniversaries of when both men received their VCs:

COMMONWEALTH WAR GRAVES

Established in 1917, by Royal Charter, the Commonwealth War Graves Commission (CWGC) honours the 1.7 million men and women of the British Commonwealth who died fighting in the First and Second World Wars. CWGC ensures they will never be forgotten by maintaining their graves or memorials, throughout the world. There are many CWG situated in Wolverhampton and these are highlighted in brackets, along with the number of graves at each site.
